

Making the World One's Home

Goan Migration across the Indian Ocean and Beyond

Dr. Margret Frenz

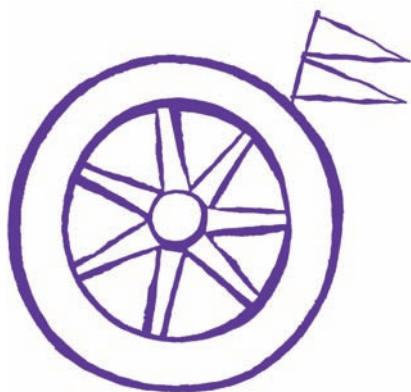

Visiting Research Fellow
Institute for Advanced Studies in the Humanities, University of Edinburgh, UK

Goans migrated from South Asia to East Africa in the 19th and 20th centuries, and from there many later made their second migration from East Africa to countries such as the UK and Canada. By analysing their migration patterns, their economic, social and political engagement in East Africa and in this process, their ability to recreate material and social practices, Dr. Frenz highlights how one community has made the world its home.

Tuesday 9 November 2010
13.15–15.00

Venue: Dept. of Sociology, Lund University,
(Conference room 3), Paradisgatan 5, Lund

SASNET

LUND
UNIVERSITY