LUMID is a new interdisciplinary international master programme in Development and Management. LUMID is hosted by the Faculty of Social Sciences at Lund University. During the third term of the programme, LUMID students engage in field-based courses in project and programme management.

Behind the LUMID Fotographic Art (LFA) project – named in honour of the famous Swedish International Development Agency (SIDA) analytical approach – the idea was to share each other’s ‘field’ experience through pictures, following a monthly theme. At the beginning of each month, the theme was revealed to the Lumiders and they were asked to post their picture on the LFA Facebook group page. The selected themes are as follows:

- October: Silence
- November: At night/After dark
- December: Happiness
- January: Devotion
- February: What is or what is not development
