ØRNAS, the Øresund Network of Asian Studies invites students and scholars from both sides of Öresund for a social gathering in Lund, on the Swedish side, on Wednesday 26 October 2005. It is free of charge.

Programme:

18.00 Lecture by Professor Olle Qvarnström: "From Hampton Roads to Lundagård. Lund University Research on Indic religions".

19.30 Indian Vegetarian Meal, prepared by Govinda's Restaurant

20.00 Musical programme: Bubu Munshi Eklund sings Rabindrasangheet, the musical treasure of the Nobel Laureate Rabindranath Tagore

All are welcome to the gathering on 26 October. Please announce your participation by sending a mail to Lars Eklund, SASNET, Lund University, Lars.Eklund@sasnet.lu.se, or to Ole Krarup Jensen, University of Copenhagen, okj@hum.ku.dk, not later than 21 October.

An Øresund Network of Asian Studies was formally established in 2003, with the purpose to strengthen East, South-East and South Asian education and research at the universities and university colleges around Øresund. The ØRNAS educational cooperation project between the universities of Lund and Copenhagen was then formally inaugurated with a ceremony at Copenhagen University on 14 September 2004. For more information on ØRNAS, see <http://www.sasnet.lu.se/ornast.html>.

A pamphlet giving the information necessary has recently been produced. Go for the pamphlet (as a pdf-file).
