

Swami Coco & the Maximum Meetha Orchestra

feat. the lovely Delhi Belly Dancers

Swami Coco & the Maximum Meetha Orchestra is a six piece band that performs live the music of the legendary composer and pioneer of indian fusion: Ananda Shankar. His music is a combination of bollywood and folk inspired melodies from india and western rock and technology. Ananda Shankar started his carrier in the seventies and has released lots of records in his particular style. Swami Coco & the Maximum Meetha Orchestra try to keep this genius' music alive and give the western audience an opportunity to experience his music live. Whith a setting of sitar, tabla, drumkit, electric guitar, bass guitar, flute and electronics the sound of Swami Coco is something new for most people. The music of Ananda Shankar is very rythm based, so the audience have no option but to dance. The band even play some bollywood hits from the seventies and a few other classics, all in Ananda Shankars sound.

To top the performance, Swami Coco & the Maximum Meetha Orchestra features the lovely "Delhi Belly Dancers", a trio usually performing under the name Sangam. They are specialized in Bollywood dance and give in combination with Swami Cocos ultimate groove an extatic performance that challenges both feet, ears and eyes.
