

Devastating Floods in Pakistan: A story of Pain, Grief and Suffering – Can We Help ?

Seminar on Karachi University's Flood Relief Activities in Northern Sindh Areas, and discussion on future relief efforts

Professor Shahana Urooj Kazmi
Pro-Vice Chancellor, University of Karachi

The most devastating floods have hit all provinces of Pakistan, causing heavy damage. Millions of people have been displaced, now spending days and nights under the open skies with no food, water and other facilities.

Students and faculty at Lund University are cordially invited to attend this seminar with Prof. Shahana Urooj Kazmi, on a short visit to Lund.

She will give a brief overview regarding the flood relief activities carried out by teachers and students at her university, through the Karachi University Disaster Management Volunteer Corps. Considering the magnitude of devastation, there is a great need to generate huge sums of money for mitigating the sufferings, as well as for rehabilitation and reconstruction work which will continue for months.

You can also help the Flood Affected Families by contributing donations in cash, kind, check or online transfer in Account

IDP Relief Fund 373-0011-9, UBL – Karachi University Branch

Date and Time: Wednesday, September 22, 2010 at 18.00

Venue: Lecture Hall Världen, Geocentrum 1, Sölvegatan 10, Lund

Organised by: Lund University Centre for Sustainability Studies (LUCSUS), and Swedish South Asian Studies Network (SASNET)